

Drupal

The diagram illustrates the flow of data from a Drupal system to a web browser. On the left, a thick black rectangular frame contains the word 'Drupal' in a large, bold, black sans-serif font. To the right of this frame is the word 'HTML' in a bold, black sans-serif font, followed by a large, thick black chevron pointing to the right. This chevron points towards a second, larger rectangular frame on the right. This frame is also composed of thick black lines and contains a smaller, inner rectangular frame. Inside this inner frame, the word 'HTML' is written in a bold, black sans-serif font. Above the rightmost frame, the word 'Browser' is written in a bold, black sans-serif font. The entire diagram is set against a plain white background.
